Birds Have Regular Routes.

Migratory birds are said to cross the North sea by well-defined tracks. The autumn immigrants fly from east to west and northwest, their return in spring being conducted over the same lines in a contrary direction. The first flights occur regularly about the middle of October and the second a month later.

FT. MEIGS CELEBRATION.

and cannot find it, the message of life, liberty and love, for which the Stars and Stripes have stood for over 100 years. Our President tells us that banner shall not be furled nor called back until there is a permanent peace, with honor, integrity and liberty for all."

Congressman Overmyer of Fremont was introduced and made a brief speech.

Thomas L. Montgomery of Harrisburg, representing Governor Brumbaugh of Pennsylvania, was another distinguished speaker. He referred to some of the pioneer history of the valley and called attention to the fact that the men from Pennsylvania as well as Kentucky came to the relief of the Ohio troops on the occasion for which the celebration was being held as an anniversary. He expressed the determination to introduce in the legislature of Pennsylvania a bill to provide for the erection of a monument at the Fort in memory of the Pittsburgh Blues.

Major Charles Heater and the Bowling Green company of the Second Ohio were present with Capt. Avery in command and Carmes' band as escort. The band gave a very pleasing concert during the afternoon.

The First Ambulance Corps of Toledo, the Sixth regiment units that are in camp at Toledo and all uniformed units in Toledo were at Fort Meigs. This includes the boys of Batteries B and E, the companies of the Sixth regiment, the First Ambulance company, the Sixth Hospital corps and the mounted scouts of headquarters company. The supply company, in command of Capt. Pugh of the Sixth regiment, drove their wagon train to the fort. The company gave the carol drill and camped on the battlefield Saturday night.

Late in the afternoon great throngs of people lined the historic embankment leading to the Fort Meigs monument to watch the soldiers drill on the parade grounds. One of the features of these exercises was a "monkey drill" by the mounted scouts. The boys went through the program of thrilling horseback stunts without a mishap. Military maneuvers and the ceremony of retreat by other local companies followed.

Around the monument hundreds gathered to listen to a concert of patriotic airs by the Sixth Regiment band. In other sections of the ground the Rossford, Overland and Bowling Green bands entertained the picnickers.

Credit for the splendid success of the celebration is chiefly due to Attorney Eugene Rheinfrank through whose efforts the work was started and whose energy and enthusiasm kept the committees on the jump until the close of the big day.

SELECTIVE CONSCRIPTION.

Considerable stress has been properly laid on the democratic principles contained in an army plan that provides for enlistment by selective conscription. Aside from the higher degree of efficiency to be obtained through its adoption and employment, it has been shown to be in keeping with the theory that every able-bodied citizen owes his unqualified support to his country in any capacity he may be called upon to fill. It is well to note, however, that the suggestion that the provisions of selective draft will assume the participation of all classes in common in the perils of war is not founded on any just assumption that the "slackers" are to be found in any particular class. The record today conclusively disposes of such a slur, says Washington Post. The sons of well-to-do and prominent men are enlisting as freely as those of more modest means and less public note. That the names of the former are published merely signifies that public interest lays hold instinctively of the evidences that the adventurous distinctions of wealth and poverty, of prominence and obscurity, disappear at the country's call. The sons of rich men and prominent men have not sought the notice. Nor is it accorded them in the stern fact of war.

Optimistic Thought.

Every man's experience is a lesson due to all.

Gorilla Closely Resembles Man.

The gorilla is man's nearest relative on the earth today. He is so much like a man that in all likelihood, according to Doctor Gregory, he would in the course of ages develop into a very human sort of creature, if his species were permitted to survive. Unfortunately, he will not enjoy the opportunity, because his race is being rapidly exterminated.

Daily Thought.

Christmas time I have always thought of as a good time; a kind, forgiving, charitable, pleasant time.—Charles Dickens.

a solo. He responded to an encore, singing "I'll Be a Soldier Boy."

Mr. Rabbit, contractor of the new building, was then introduced; he made the formal presentation of the building to the Board of Education. Dr. Bowers, president of the board, accepted it in behalf of the other members.

Colonel Greenhalgh made a few remarks concerning school growth in Perryburg.

The program closed with a solo by Master Clarence Hoffman.

The people of Perryburg should be well pleased with the new building. The equipment is probably better than in any other high school of its size in the state. More of our children should take advantage of the opportunities offered. The slogan should be, "Bigger and better schools for Perryburg." Watch us grow.

well drained, with excellent water and macadam roads. Louisville can be reached by the electric car and passes are granted the drafted men on certain days.

Before closing I would like to thank the Red Cross Society and the young ladies of the church for the "comfort bag and housewife" as it is surely a soldier's best friend and one to be appreciated at all times.

Again thanking you for your kindness, I am, very truly yours,

People Speak Well of Chamberlain's Tablets.

"I have been selling Chamberlain's Tablets for about two years and heard such good reports from my customers that I concluded to give them a trial myself, and can say that I do not believe there is another preparation of the kind equal to them," writes G. A. McBride, Headford, Ont. "If you are troubled with indigestion or constipation give them a trial. They will do you good."

ly at the end of the season she was withdrawn.

Again in 1897 there was an attempt made to successfully revive steamboat navigation on the Perryburg route. In June of that year the steamer O. B. Reed commenced making regular trips on the route. The Reed was a staunch, well furnished, sidewheel steamer 120 feet in length. She was in command of Captain J. A. Rogers, with Homer Gregory as chief engineer. Col. E. L. Kingsbury was the manager of the company which brought the Reed here. How long this steamer remained on the route the writer is unable to say, but she did not prove to be a gold mine for her owners while here.

Perhaps the last steamboat to make regular trips between Perryburg and Toledo was the steamer Fort Meigs. The trolley line and the desire of the people to make the trip to the city in less time than a steamboat could do it was too much for her. It takes money to run a steamboat and the passengers who wished to make the trip just for pleasure were not sufficiently numerous to produce the needed revenue.

Capt. Arthur J. Fox of Toledo also commanded the steamer Ruby for a few months during her last season on the Perryburg-Toledo route. He was a genial, good-natured skipper and soon became very popular not only with the patrons of the boat but with the citizens of the Burg generally.

While the scenery on the Maumee is grand, and the river trip a very enjoyable one, the people in this locality do not see into appreciate it, and it is doubtful if there will be another steamer to make regular trips between Perryburg and Toledo.

For Polishing Furniture.

The polish generally used on mission furniture is the dull wax finish. If, instead of applying only wax, alternate coats of boiled linseed oil and wax are used, a polish will be obtained which is brighter and more durable than the ordinary finish.
